

An aerial photograph of a river meandering through a landscape. The river is a light blue-grey color, winding from the top left towards the bottom right. The surrounding land is divided into patches of vibrant green, yellow-green, and brown, suggesting different types of vegetation or land use. In the background, there are rolling hills and mountains under a pale blue sky with some white clouds. The overall style is that of a high-quality landscape photograph.

II CONCURSO
NACIONAL
M^a PILAR BURGEEES